

Explore TAG's New Online Press Room

Web pages provide at-a-glance information for queries and citations.

To recognize our decade of growth in both global expansion and subject expertise, The Acheson Group (TAG) has developed an online Press Room specifically intended to make journalists' lives easier.

With a variety of at-a-glance information and useful links to press releases, logos, descriptive paragraphs about TAG, and Fast Facts – including a timeline of TAG milestones, TAG experts and expertise, and much more – the Press Room was developed to enable editorial outlets and journalists to easily access TAG information in a single place.

Along with the Press Room, we have added a media-specific email (Media@AchesonGroup.com) where journalists can directly access TAG's communications team with questions; comments; or requests for expert input, quotes, or articles. Feel free to reach out to us at any time for prompt response to your query.

Combined expertise throughout TAG totals to well over a century of food safety, public health, and regulatory knowledge for which we provide both services and training. As a team we can provide you with specific expertise in:

- General food safety
- Food safety culture
- Public health
- Food defense
- Recall/crisis management
- Hygienic design
- Standards & regulations
- Environmental controls
- Supply chain risk management
- Microbiology
- Risk mitigation
- Private Equity

We also are continuously expanding our footprint year over year, currently providing services in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Latin America, Europe, Asia, China, Middle East, and India. Daily operations are 100% virtual, working across North America as well as India. Services are offered as remote or onsite at client locations, based on what best suits our clients and their expectations.
